

PRACTICE FOCUS

Jacqueline (“Jackie”) Mitchell-Koromah is an attorney in the firm’s Family Law practice group. Jackie routinely advises and represents clients in the areas of divorce, child custody and visitation, child and spousal support, settlement negotiations, property division, modification and enforcement actions and other domestic relations matters. She assists her clients in developing solutions that help them navigate through legal issues and supports them in what is most often the most stressful time of their lives. Jackie understands that behind the people she represents are the families and communities they serve. The success of her clients contributes to her drive to advocate passionately on their behalf.
