PRACTICE FOCUS

Mr. Stone represents clients before all state courts in Virginia, before government agencies, and before local governments, school boards, and departments. His clients include area education associations, businesses and other trade and professional organizations; Families and individuals. He also has provided legislative and lobbying services on behalf of a wide variety of groups - labor, business, attorneys and doctors. He takes pride in the fact that most of his cases are quietly resolved in the best interest of his clients. His philosophy is that every reasonable effort should be made to settle legal claims or disputes in a way that protects his clients' rights, and that costly litigation and adversarial proceedings should always be the last resort.

Additional Practice Areas: Administrative Law, Civil Litigation, Criminal Defense Litigation and Appeal, Juvenile Law, Title IX.

POINTS OF DISTINCTION

Mr. Stone has been appointed by the Virginia House of Delegates for a four year term to the Board of Directors of the Virginia Economic Development Partnership. This independent Virginia state agency coordinates all economic development activities for the Commonwealth of Virginia.
